

Hero Composition Studies

Same creative idea, six visual hierarchies. The concept (The Confident Host), the art direction (the D'Charmant Glass Hall at dusk — warm-within-cool, guest-arrival), and the North Star are fixed. Only composition varies here. Imagery is a placeholder for the dusk hero; copy is indicative, not final. Confirmed facts shown: the 1,300-seat hall, 50 beds, certified halal, one invoice, Pretoria & Centurion, and the Book a viewing primary action.

1 Lower-Third, Left

RECOMMENDED · HOMEPAGE

LAYOUT PHILOSOPHY

Image full-bleed; all copy anchored in the calm lower-third, left-aligned — the art-direction-native composition. The glowing hall breathes upper-right; the eye travels glow → scale → threshold → copy.

TRUST PLACEMENT

A single quiet strip directly above the CTA — trust at the point of decision (proximity principle).

IMAGE TREATMENT

Full-bleed dusk; bottom-to-transparent scrim only where copy sits — the photo stays at full strength above.

MOBILE BEHAVIOUR

Translates almost unchanged: the 4:5 crop keeps the glow up top, copy stacks in the lower third, trust wraps to two rows, full-width Book-a-viewing in the thumb zone. The most robust of the six on mobile.

ADVANTAGES

Serves both guests at once (couple: full beautiful image; procurement: proof beside the CTA); faithful to the art direction; single focal point; strongest mobile parity.

BEST USE CASE

The homepage — brand + both audiences + the gap-close in one frame.

TYPOGRAPHY PLACEMENT

Stacked lower-left: eyebrow → H1 (2–3 lines) → sub → trust → CTA. One consistent left edge to scan.

CTA PLACEMENT

Primary + secondary lowest in the stack, in the thumb zone; nothing competes.

EMOTION ↔ EVIDENCE

WEAKNESSES

Copy sits over the image, so the dusk region behind the lower-third must be dark enough (managed by the scrim + crop).

2 Left Column, Mid-Height

LAYOUT PHILOSOPHY

Copy vertically centred on the left; a left-to-right scrim keeps the right half (the glowing hall) clear. Classic editorial asymmetry.

TRUST PLACEMENT

Under the sub, above the CTA, within the left column.

IMAGE TREATMENT

Full-bleed; the focal glow deliberately kept on the open right side.

MOBILE BEHAVIOUR

The left column drops to a lower-left stack (the mid-height anchor doesn't hold on a tall crop) — effectively converges with Composition 1 on phones.

ADVANTAGES

Very readable; strong left-edge scan; copy sits higher (good for skimmers); premium editorial feel.

BEST USE CASE

Copy-forward inner landing pages (e.g., Weddings storytelling) where reading comes first.

TYPOGRAPHY PLACEMENT

Left third, vertically centred — a strong reading column with a larger H1.

CTA PLACEMENT

Mid-left, immediately after trust — high on the screen, fast to reach.

EMOTION ↔ EVIDENCE

WEAKNESSES

The side scrim covers more of the image, dimming the emotion; two near-equal focal weights (copy vs glow) risk splitting attention.

3 Centred Ceremonial

LAYOUT PHILOSOPHY

Symmetric, centred statement over a radial scrim — formal and ceremonial, the venue as a stage.

TRUST PLACEMENT

Centred beneath the sub — reads as a crest/hallmark line.

IMAGE TREATMENT

Full-bleed with a centred radial scrim — the glow is partly veiled to hold the type.

MOBILE BEHAVIOUR

Holds its symmetry but centred long lines wrap awkwardly on narrow screens; centred trust + CTA are less thumb-optimal than a left/edge stack.

ADVANTAGES

Grand, timeless, wedding-ceremonial; unmistakably premium; great for a single-message moment.

BEST USE CASE

A Weddings hero or a campaign landing page with one message.

TYPOGRAPHY PLACEMENT

Centred mid-frame; H1 as a headline statement; everything mirrored around the axis.

CTA PLACEMENT

A single centred button (secondary dropped for purity).

EMOTION ↔ EVIDENCE

WEAKNESSES

Centred layouts read as "template" if not perfect; softer capability signal; weakest scannability for a procurement skimmer; veiling the glow costs emotion.

LAYOUT PHILOSOPHY

The dusk image and a solid estate-green panel share the frame; copy lives in its own calm space rather than over the photo.

TRUST PLACEMENT

Full four-item strip in the panel, directly above the CTA — the clearest proof of the six.

IMAGE TREATMENT

Image is ~half-frame — still the dusk hall, but no longer full-bleed; less immersive, more "product".

MOBILE BEHAVIOUR

Panel stacks above (or below) a shortened image band — copy first, image second; very reliable, if less cinematic.

ADVANTAGES

Best legibility & message-match; strongest for the procurement buyer and paid search; contrast is guaranteed (no text-over-image risk).

BEST USE CASE

The Conferences hero (the #1 paid-search landing page) — the backup direction from docs/15.

TYPOGRAPHY PLACEMENT

All type inside the panel, left-aligned, on a controlled surface — maximum legibility.

CTA PLACEMENT

Primary + secondary in the panel, unmissable on the solid ground.

EMOTION ↔ EVIDENCE

WEAKNESSES

Sacrifices the full-bleed awe — the gap-close is weaker; closest of the six to a "corporate" feel; least emotional.

5 Overlap Proof Card

LAYOUT PHILOSOPHY

Emotion in the frame; the proof lifted into a small card that overlaps the fold, signalling "there is more below" (a free scroll cue).

TRUST PLACEMENT

A dedicated floating card on the ivory surface — the proof gets its own object and maximum contrast.

IMAGE TREATMENT

Full-bleed dusk; the card breaks the bottom edge into the next section.

MOBILE BEHAVIOUR

The card drops below the image (overlap can't survive a tall crop) — becomes image → copy → proof-card stack; the scroll-cue benefit is largely lost on phones.

ADVANTAGES

Proof is crisp and legible on its own surface; the overlap invites the scroll; distinctive.

BEST USE CASE

A desktop-led landing page where a strong single proof-cluster earns its own moment.

TYPOGRAPHY PLACEMENT

H1 + sub lower-left over the image; proof relocated into the card.

CTA PLACEMENT

With the H1, lower-left; the card is proof, not action.

EMOTION ↔ EVIDENCE

WEAKNESSES

Two objects competing near the fold; the overlap is fragile and doesn't translate to mobile; adds complexity for modest gain.

LAYOUT PHILOSOPHY

Maximum breathing room; the image carries almost everything. One line, one badge, one button.

TRUST PLACEMENT

One signal only — the certified-halal badge; all other proof deferred below the fold.

IMAGE TREATMENT

Full-bleed dusk at full strength; the lightest scrim of the six.

MOBILE BEHAVIOUR

Superb — the least to fit, so the fold budget is trivially met; the crop and one line do all the work.

ADVANTAGES

Highest premium ceiling; purest gap-close; fastest to read; most "Aman".

BEST USE CASE

A brand / campaign splash, or if the single hero photograph is truly exceptional and capability is proven immediately below.

TYPOGRAPHY PLACEMENT

A single large H1 lower-left; no sub above the fold.

CTA PLACEMENT

A single Book-a-viewing button; nothing else.

EMOTION ↔ EVIDENCE

WEAKNESSES

Withholds the capability proof the procurement buyer needs above the fold — risks "beautiful, but can it hold my 300?"; leans hard on one perfect photograph.

Composition 1 — Lower-Third, Left

It is the only composition that scores strong on every axis the homepage must satisfy at once: it delivers the full-bleed dusk awe that closes the perception-vs-reality gap, keeps the capability proof directly above the CTA for the procurement buyer, and does both in a single frame — so it serves the couple and the organiser without becoming two heroes.

It is also the art-direction-native composition: the treatment already called for the lower region to stay calm and reserve a place for the promise and the invitation — this is that frame. Its mobile parity is the best of the six (the lower-third stacks straight into the 4:5 crop), and trust sits at the point of decision (the proximity principle).

The stronger alternatives aren't wrong — they're right for other pages: Composition 4 (Split Panel) is the natural Conferences hero (maximum message-match for paid search), and Composition 3 leans Weddings-ceremonial. One system; emphasis by intent. For the homepage, Composition 1 is objectively the strongest.
